I know there are in this country what are called plains or prairies, where the cettages of the poor man were, and they are now occupied by the ox and swins. The poor man is not there, but where is he? I can frace him. He is in the West of the United States—(cheers)—and he is, instead of being the humble sottier afraid of having his cotinge laken from him, now the owner of his section of land in America, perhaps of three hundred acres or more of what was until intely government land, and the property of the government; and even lately he was the property of the government; and even lately he was the property of the government; and even lately he was the property of the government; and even lately he was the property of the government; and even lately he was the property of the government have been done to the second of the words he was the property of the government protection, allowed to do what he pleased with it. (Applause.) So that between the ox and the swines which feed on the spot that rises in the verdancy of the plains by the luxuriousness of its illiage—between that and his present ecoupation what has befallen him has been to the coupation what has befallen him has been to the coupation what has befallen him has been to the coupation what has been to the coupation what has been to the coupation in reland, if he carries with him aed inherits the faith which made this island so distinguished in the early period of the Church—wherever he goes, whether it be to the prairies or the city, he carries with him the zeal and devotion to his Church, by which he can raise himself in the respect of all who know him. The Gentra—And be assured that I have scarcely had me to observe the progress and extension of religion in y own discusses. Things go or from day to day. My ought is not what is done, but what is to be done. Lear, hear.) Our Catholic people of New York have ade exestions to scoure for themselves and their chilencian to this matter, and I con tell you something more cut it. There was in the city of New York a corporate which was called the Public School Society, and was mad for the purpose of educating all without distinct. They were a close corporation, and had the privipe of having one hundred members in order to make a daspearance. After a while they lost some members, if at one time had only fifty three of their own creed. They were a close corporation, and mad the privipe of having one hundred members in order to make a daspearance. After a while they lost some two three lawscopullans, a couple of Methodists, half a knowledge of United States. They are the subscient of the lawscopullans, a couple of Methodists, half a knowledge of Methodists, half a couple of Methodists, half a couple of Methodists, half a couple of Methodists, half a man, and they make a system which as all them done in the state Legislature professed antisty us Catholice, and they make a system which said to be better. We that you here we would have Queen's colleges. (Lear, hear.)

Its Graces—Afterwards the Stare Legislature professed antisty us Catholice, and they make a system which said to be better. We tried it for four years and it ed. We then built our schoolhouses at a cost of Actority, the community of the Ursulines, the committy of Notre Bame—we might, perhals, omit to mensome, but these we remember at present. We have in the city of New ally, and with a certainty of producing the required effect on the children's minds. The cards hung on the wall of the schools with such phrases on them as "God sees us," and always before the eyes of the children, produce their own impression on them. We know and see the elect of the teaching at such schools. The children become introducint to the streets, they have grown irreversal and no fane towards their parents, and hence we have unly and the conclude by returning you my shoors thanks for this impression of the children wards me on the part of the tuthoic nopulation of Cork, and in particular to the dayor, who is so will known from the confidence placed in him by his fellow edizions, and still more by the

His Grace Most Rev. Dr. Hogues again rose and was received with vehement manifestations of applause. When it had subsided, he said:—

Gentlemen—I am supposed to be what is called a law actions citizes while I am at home, and that implies due defecence to authority. I will ask your permission therefore—laying his Honer the Mayor aside for the moment—to propose a toast. (Laughter.) If I did not propose it at the conclusion of my former remarks, it was not that I forgot my duty, but it was because—as hors efeants keep their bonnes choses for the last—I reserve my best also for the last.—(Cheers and laughter). I will propose to you the health of one of whom I need not speak, because there is not a gentleman in the room whose approval and support have not been the endorsement of the hanorable lift. Mayor. (Tremendous cheering, again and again repeated). He was kind enough to allude to a calamity in my country (as I shall call it in a civil sense), owing to the war which rages there with great violence at the present moment. It would indeed be a strange thing if either biskop or priest were insensible, or itstend without feeling to the remarks made by the Mayor on this subject. (Hear, hear.) I feel much myself at the continuance of the war. I endeavored to precent to intrigate its horrors as much as I could. (Cheers.) I pay and hope that peace between both parties may be mate; but if any one asks melians peace is to come I find it impossible byte and an appeal is made to the decision of force and the arbitrament of sangulnary war, we can do very little. We can pray, and that is all we can do force and the arbitrament of sangulnary war, we can do correct and the arbitrament of sangulnary war, we can do correct and the arbitrament of sangulnary war, we can do correct and the arbitrament of sangulnary war, we can do correct and the arbitramen save the starving people of this island. (Tremendous appliance)

Mr. W. Hegarry—Which the English Puritan did not do. (Great cheering.)

His Grace continued—I will take up the gentleman's observation. The English Peritan did not do so. I will say, houseer, that the English Peritan did not do so. I will say, houseer, that the English people, man by man, did contribute; the English people, man by man, did contribute; the English pocenment did not. (Cries of 'Bravo,' and appliance.) I say this the more frankly because their interference with the charitable left a bad impression on my mind. Those very provisions which were sent to the relief of the Irish were charged the very same duty as if they came from the market and were to be purchased. The charges were made not by the English ladies and gentlemen, and I entertain for them very great respect. I could, therefore, cast no imputation on them as a people; but when one looks at the different manner in which the two countries are treated he is inclined to put blame somewhere. Her Majesty the other day sent £2,000 to relieve the distress in Ireland?

SEVERAL GENTILENS.—No, no.

His GRACE—It is said the English are starving. How? On beef steads. (Laughter.) That is one great characteristic of the Englishman, he will never allow himself to be starved. (Renewed laughter.) It is a fact, however, that the people in some districts are poor, and I sympathize with them. They say they have no outton; without exton there is no work; and when there is no work what is the consequence? Why, the wealthy man, the rich neighbor, comes in and gives aid; and it is a matter of positive fact that the operatives of Manchester have not lived better for a long time than they do at present. (Laughter.) After a lew other observations on the state of things at present existing in America, his Grace concluded by proposing the health of the Mayor. His Grace then resumed his seat amid repeated bursts of applause.

The Charman returned thanks.

France and the Slave Trade.

The following circular

The Chairman repeated ourses of appearse.

The following circular has been addressed to the Maritime Prefect of Brest, and the other Fronch ports, by the Minister of Marine.—

Mossman E Passra—I have been informed that, since the government of the United States has conceded to the English government the right of search by Britisherulsers of American vessels suspected of carrying on the slave trade, the slavers appear disposed to take advantage of our flag to shelter their guilty enterprises; and a member of the House of Lords recently mentioned in his place in Parliament the cross of a vessel which was being fitted out in one of the French ports, ostensibly for a commercial operation, but in reality to undertake a slave carrying voyage from Congo. I invite you to recommend the maritime authorities of the different ports in your arrondissement to exercise a most active surveillance upon the vessels which they will observe to be fitting out for the coast of Africa, to find out the propristors, and cause them to give an account of the objects of their stores and cargoes. The operations which may appear to be suspicious must be immediately communicated to me, in order that, in case of need, I may give timely notice to the commander of the squadron on the west coast of Africa. Receive, &c.,

COUNT P. DE CHASSELOUP-LAUBAT.

The Eastern Question.

The Paris Patric contains the following returns of the proceedings of the second meeting of the conference of ministers at Constantinople:—After the exchange of some general explanations between the representatives of the great Powers, a memorial from the Servian government was read, demanding, in the most absolute manner, the demolition of the citadel of Beigrade. The representatives of Turkey protested most energetically against the conclusions of this memorial. Asi Pasha insisted, becausing into any further discussions, that the confe conclusions of this memorial. Asii Paska masted, before going into any further discussions, that the conference should quality such a demand as absolutely contrary to the letter of the treaties; and, considering this point as one beyond discussion, he demanded that the counter propositions of his government should be immediately examined. These counter propositions, if we are well informed, refer only to a diminution of the effective strength of the Turkish garrisons in the fortresses they occupy in the Servian terrkory. The representative of England, as we before intimated, supported the views of Anil Paska. The discussion was deforred to the next sitting, in which the debate will probably be more animated, as the divergence of the views of several of the great Powers on the Servian question becomes more evident.

Stabbling on Board an American Ship.

[From the Liverpool Mercury, August 1.]

Richard Williams, one of the crew of the American ship Aurora, now lying in the river ready to proceed to sea, was brought up in custody, charged with having stabbed Anthony R. Flood, first mate of the vessel. It appeared that about six o'clock that morning some dispute took place on board respecting the breakfast supplied to the crew, and the second mate went to the berth of the chief officer and told him that the man Williams was grumbling about the breakfast. The complainant subsequently went to the port quarter, where he found Williams, and inquired of him what was the matter, at the same time placing his hand upon his shoulder. This seems to have enraged the prisoner, for he drew his knie and made a stab at the mate's breast, cutting through his shirt and singlet, but not wounding him. The mate stepped back, but Williams followed him and stabbed him twice upon the head, inflicting rather dangerous wounds. Mr. Cobb, who appeared for the defence, called winnesses to show that the mate, instead of simply laying his hand upon the prisoner's shoulder, seized him by the neck and almost strangeled him. The boatswain was called, and he said the first matae seized the prisoner roughly by the collar in the first instance, and used bad language. Williams was ordered to pay a fine of five pounds, or be imprisoned for two months in default.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

TUESDAY, August 12-6 P. M. The following is a comparative statement of the exports (exclusive of specie) from New York to foreign ports for the week ending August 12 and since January 1:-

For the week....$1,894,058 1,597,985 3,697,657
Previously rep'td...$2,932,857 78,431,460 79,767,677 Since Jan. 1...$54,826,916 80,019,454 83,465,334 Though somewhat less than last week and the week before, the above return compares very favorably with that of the corresponding week o last year. In three weeks we have sent abroad from this port $12,000,000 of produce. If we continge to ship produce as we are doing at present, the exports from this port during the current calendar year will exceed $125,000,000, without cotton.

Money is freely supplied to the brokers at 4 per cent, and we hear of loans at 3 per cent. Mercantile paper is very scarce; prime is quoted at 4 a 5 per cent. The deposits at the Sub-Treasury are slack again. People seem to be waiting for the battle which is likely to be fought on or near the Rapidan. Dutiable demand notes are higher again, closing this afternoon at 106 a 1/4.

Exchange was inactive to-day; but prices are a shade firmer. In the morning bankers' bills sold at 125%; but in the afternoon it was difficult to buy at 126%, and the leading houses put up their rate to 126. There is very little inquiry for bills. Gold fluctuated all day between 113% and 113%, closing at 113% a 114. It is understood in the street that there have been large purchases made of gold within a day or two for account of the bears. The short sales which have been effected since the late rise are now the strongest support of the market. The public are generally sellers, not buyers of gold, and the demand for export is too slight to influence the price. The steel market was his her to-day, and buoyant at the advance. People now generally regard the battle of Cedar Mountain as more of a success than a 'cleat. The impression prevails, too, that Gereral Pope has force enough to acmplish his designs. Hence the speculators are all on the, bull side at present, and there is quite a rush among outsiders to buy dividend-paying stocks. The most active shares of the day were Erie and Erie preferred, Galena, Illinois Central, Michigan Central and New York Central. There was likewise a good deal of business in Rock Island and Toledo: but, for the present, the shares above mentioned seem to be the favorites among speculators. Comparing the prices of this evenng with those which were current yesterday afternoon, we note an advance of 2 per cent in Galena, 1½ in Rock Island, 1½ in Erie preferred, 1½ in Michigan Central, 1½ in Erie 'old, 1 in Reading, ½ in Illinois Central, ¾ in New York Central, ¼ in Southern old, ¼ in guaranteed, 3/4 in Pacific Mail, Harlem preferred and Toledo and 1/4 in Hudson and Harlem old. There was no change in Panama. Governments were all better. The registered sixes of 1881 sold at par, and kinds were held at par, and the 7.30 notes at 103% at the close. For good railway bonds the inquiry continues lively. The issues of the Northwestern Railway, which are the cheapest of the good bonds on the list, advanced I per cent to-day, the seconds selling at 30. At the close the market was very firm, the following being the last quotations:—United States 6's, registered, 1881, 99% a 100; United States 6's, coupon, 1881, 99% a 100; United States 5's, 1874, 87 a 873; Treasury notes, 7 3-10 per cent, 103½ a 103¾; Tennessee 6's, 50 a 51; Virginia 6's, — a 54; North Carolina 6's, 65 a 67½; Missouri 6's, 46¼ a 46¼; American gold, 113½ a 113½; Pacific Mail, 110½ a 110½; New York Central, 93 a 931/6; Erie, 361/4 a 363/6; do. preferred, 671/6 a 673/6; Hudson River, 463/4 a 47; Harlem, 15% a 16; do. preferred, 38% a 38%; Reading, 59 a 59%; Michigan Central, 65% a 65%; Michigan Southern and Northern Indiana, 27% a 27%; do. guaranteed, 59% a 59%; Panama, 137 a 140; Illinois Central, 59% a 60; Galena and Chicago, 71% a 72; Cleveland and Toledo, 48¾ a 40; Chicago and Rock Island, 66 a 66; Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, 82 a 85; Milwaukee and Prairie du Chien, 33% a 33%; New York Central 7's, 1876, 1091/4 a 110; Erie third mortgage bonds, 101 a 102; Michigan Central 3's, first mortgage, 108 a 1081/4; Illinois Central bonds, 7's, 981/4 a 99. The earnings of the Illinois Central Railway for the month of July were $249,929-by far the largest earnings for July in the history of the road. The July earnings for six years have been as fol-

 The road is now, almost for the first time in its history, out of debt; every dollar of floating debt has been paid off, and no more money will go to pay for renewals or commissions on loans. The funded debt is now $15,234,000 on 700 miles of railway, and 1,200,000 acres of land yet unsold. The farmers who have settled on the lands of the company are paying up, partly in money and partly in grain, with very remarkable regularity. The receipts for July were $34,182 in money and 50,000 bushels corn. These figures serve to explain the recent advance in the stock of the Illinois Central from 56 to 60, and indicate that it will take a leading place among the active fancles of the day if speculation becomes general and lively. We learn that the leading trunk lines of railway to the West-namely, the New York Central, the Erie and the Pennsylvania line-have held a conference, and decided to raise freights after the 18th inst. They have all more business than they can do, and the advance in rates will not be unexpected. The Central earnings for July will show an increase of $225,000; the Erie is understood to be doing still better. The Sub-Treasurer issues the following notice:-
